Junior Bicycle Safety Check

SOUTH TOWN TRAFFIC CLUB
Free Junior Bicycle Safety Check
Date: Sunday, April 19 (9:30 a.m. – 12:30 p.m.)
Place: South Elementary School Playground

Spring is a great season for cycling! Volunteer mechanics will check your brakes, tires, bell, and front light for free. If your tires need air or your chain needs oil, we will take care of it on the spot.

Students who pass all safety checks will receive a reflective sticker for their rear fender. No reservation is needed; just bring your bicycle before noon. If it rains, the event will be held next Sunday, April 26.

(21) What will students receive if their bicycles pass all the safety checks?

1 A bottle of chain oil to take home.

2 A free ticket to a cycling race.

3 A brand-new front light.

4 A reflective sticker for their bicycle.

(22) What should students do to join this event on April 19?

1 Bring their bicycle to the playground before noon.

2 Wait inside the school gym if it rains.

3 Pay a 500-yen inspection fee.

4 Send an email a week in advance.

From: Mei
To: Toby
Subject: Bakery interview for the school paper

Hi Toby,
I just spoke on the phone with Mr. Baker, the owner of Sunflower Bread Shop, about our interview for the school newspaper. Originally, we planned to visit his shop after school this Wednesday. However, a group of elementary school children is visiting his kitchen that afternoon, so he asked if we could come on Thursday at 4:15 p.m. instead.

Mr. Baker said we may take two photos of the bread ovens, as long as we don't use a camera flash while staff are working. Since you are the photographer for our article, could you bring the club camera on Thursday?

I already wrote five interview questions in a shared notebook. Please read them during lunch break tomorrow and add one or two questions of your own. Let me know tonight if Thursday works for you!

Thanks,
Mei

(23) Why did Mr. Baker ask to change the interview from Wednesday to Thursday?

1 Mei has a dentist appointment on Wednesday.

2 Sunflower Bread Shop is always closed on Wednesdays.

3 His bread ovens broke down this morning.

4 Elementary school children are visiting his kitchen on Wednesday afternoon.

(24) What condition did Mr. Baker set for taking photos in the shop?

1 Only smartphone cameras may be used.

2 Students must not use a flash while staff are working.

3 Photos can be taken only outside the entrance.

4 Students must pay 100 yen for each photo.

(25) What does Mei want Toby to do during lunch break tomorrow?

1 Call Mr. Baker to cancel the visit.

2 Buy bread for the newspaper club.

3 Read her five questions and add one or two more.

4 Clean the lens of the club camera.

Umbrellas with Green Ribbons

At North Station Junior High School, sudden afternoon showers are common in June and September. For years, the school office kept twenty plain black umbrellas to lend to students who forgot theirs. Unfortunately, fewer than half of the umbrellas came back within a week. Students didn't mean to keep them; once a black umbrella stood in a family's umbrella stand at home, it looked just like everyone else's.

Last spring, the student welfare committee looked for a friendly way to solve this problem without making strict rules. One seventh-grade member, Riku, noticed how easily shoppers returned bright baskets at his neighborhood supermarket. Inspired by that, the committee tied a bright green cloth ribbon with a wooden tag onto the handle of every school umbrella. Each tag showed a cheerful turtle drawing and a number from one to twenty.

Instead of asking teachers to write down borrowers' names in a heavy book, the committee placed a whiteboard right inside the school entrance. When students borrowed an umbrella, they simply moved a numbered magnet from the "Ready" column to the "Out" column. Every morning as students walked into school, they passed the board and immediately remembered if a numbered turtle umbrella was still at their house.

During the rainy month of June, nineteen out of twenty umbrellas were returned the very next morning, and the last one came back on Friday after a student recovered from a cold. Other schools in the city heard about the turtle tags and visited North Station Junior High to learn how a small visual change encouraged everyone to cooperate.

3C Umbrellas with Green Ribbons　設問 (26)〜(30)

(26) Why did students often forget to return the school's black umbrellas in the past?

1 The school office was locked every morning.

2 The umbrellas were too heavy to carry back to school.

3 The plain black umbrellas looked just like umbrellas at home.

4 Students were allowed to keep them for a whole year.

(27) What did the welfare committee attach to the handle of each school umbrella?

1 A plastic pocket holding the borrower's student card.

2 A bright green ribbon and a numbered wooden tag with a turtle picture.

3 A lock that only teachers could open.

4 A small bell that rang loudly in the rain.

(28) How did borrowers record that they had taken an umbrella under the new system?

1 They wrote an essay for the principal.

2 They paid a 100-yen deposit at the supermarket.

3 They sent an email to Riku's house.

4 They moved a numbered magnet on a whiteboard by the entrance.

(29) Why did the twentieth umbrella come back on Friday instead of the next morning in June?

1 It had been lost on a train.

2 The student who borrowed it had been absent with a cold.

3 A teacher used it for a week-long trip.

4 Its green ribbon fell off in the wind.

(30) What happened after the new umbrella system succeeded?

1 Other schools in the city visited to learn about the idea.

2 Riku started working at the neighborhood supermarket.

3 The school threw away all twenty umbrellas.

4 Strict fines were introduced for late returns.
