From: Chloe
To: Sota
Subject: Saturday's International Day booth

Hi Sota,
Our English club's booth for Saturday's International Day is almost ready! Yesterday, Ms. Alvarez checked our quiz posters about traditional musical instruments from Peru, Ireland, and Kenya, and she fixed two small spelling mistakes for us.

We still need a world map so visitors can find those three countries easily after taking our quiz. Do you still have that large laminated world map in your study room? If we hang it on the back wall with removable tape, we won't leave any marks on the classroom wall.

Also, club members need to gather in Room 2B at 8:20 a.m. on Saturday, forty minutes before the doors open to guests, to arrange the desks in a circle. Could you text me tonight if we can borrow your map?

See you tomorrow,
Chloe

Preparing Our Booth for International Day　設問 (23)〜(25)

(23) How did Ms. Alvarez help the English club yesterday?

1 She checked their quiz posters and corrected two spelling mistakes.

2 She bought removable tape at a supermarket.

3 She lent them musical instruments from Kenya.

4 She arranged all the desks in Room 2B.

(24) Why does Chloe want to use removable tape for the world map?

1 Because glue is sold out everywhere in town.

2 Because Room 2B has no back wall.

3 So the classroom wall will not get any marks on it.

4 So visitors can tear the map into three pieces.

(25) What time will doors open to guests on Saturday?

1 At 7:40 a.m.

2 At 8:20 a.m.

3 At 9:00 a.m.

4 At 9:40 a.m.

Cooking Lessons from Neighbor Chefs

Two years ago, the youth center in Pine Valley started a monthly Saturday event called "Neighbor Chefs." Each month, a resident from a different background teaches twelve junior high school students how to cook one home-style dish that is special to their family. The idea began when the center director heard both teenagers and older residents say they rarely had chances to talk with people outside their own age group.

Last month, eighty-year-old Mr. Sato taught students how to roll thick handmade udon noodles from wheat flour, salt, and water. At first, eighth-grader Kenta pressed the dough unevenly, and his noodles came out in strange widths. Laughing warmly, Mr. Sato stood beside him and showed him how to lean his body weight rhythmically onto the wooden rolling pin. By the second batch, Kenta's noodles were smooth and even.

This month, Mrs. Silva, who moved to Pine Valley from Brazil ten years ago, introduced warm cheese bread baked with tapioca flour. While the bread baked in the oven, she showed family photos from her hometown and taught the students how to say "Delicious!" in Portuguese.

At the end of every session, students write the recipe and one memorable story from the guest teacher on an illustrated card. The youth center has collected twenty-four cards so far and plans to print them as a neighborhood cookbook this winter so every household can enjoy the flavors and stories of Pine Valley.

Cooking Lessons from Neighbor Chefs　設問 (26)〜(30)

(26) Why did the Pine Valley youth center begin the "Neighbor Chefs" event?

1 Teenagers and older residents seldom had chances to talk across age groups.

2 Junior high school students had nowhere to eat weekday lunches.

3 The city wanted to train professional hotel chefs.

4 Local restaurants closed down two years ago.

(27) How did Mr. Sato help Kenta improve his udon noodles?

1 He cut the noodles with a machine.

2 He showed Kenta how to put his body weight rhythmically on the rolling pin.

3 He added tapioca flour to the wheat dough.

4 He baked the noodles in a hot oven.

(28) What did Mrs. Silva do while the cheese bread was baking in the oven?

1 She showed hometown photos and taught a Portuguese word.

2 She wrote twenty-four recipe cards by herself.

3 She repaired the oven door with Kenta.

4 She went shopping for salt and wheat flour.

(29) What do students write on an illustrated card at the end of each session?

1 The recipe and one memorable story from the guest teacher.

2 A test score for each student's dish.

3 A list of restaurants in Brazil.

4 The price of kitchen tools at the youth center.

(30) What does the youth center plan to do with the twenty-four cards this winter?

1 Keep them locked inside the director's desk.

2 Send all of them to a museum in Portugal.

3 Sell them only to professional bakers.

4 Print them as a neighborhood cookbook for local households.
