Returning Your Umbrella

From: Daichi
To: Riku
Subject: Thank you for yesterday!

Hi Riku,
Thank you so much for lending me your striped umbrella yesterday afternoon! The rain became really strong on my way home, so it saved my textbooks from getting wet.

I dried the umbrella well last night and folded it neatly. Tomorrow morning I have basketball practice in the gym from 7:30 a.m., so I will come to your classroom during the ten-minute break after first period to give it back.

Also, my aunt sent us a box of sweet tangerines from Ehime. I will bring three for you!

See you tomorrow,
Daichi

Returning Your Umbrella — Questions

(28) How did Riku's umbrella help Daichi?

1 He used it in a school play.

2 It protected him from hot sunlight.

3 It kept his textbooks dry in the strong rain.

4 It helped him carry tangerines.

(29) When will Daichi return the umbrella?

1 At 7:30 a.m. in the gym.

2 Next weekend.

3 During lunch break.

4 During the break after first period.

(30) What will Daichi bring for Riku?

1 A basketball magazine.

2 A new towel.

3 Three tangerines from Ehime.

4 A box of chocolates.

A Sign for the Bakery Steps

Near Midori Park, an older couple named Mr. and Mrs. Hara ran a small bread shop. Their walnut rolls were popular, and neighbors of all ages visited every morning. However, there were two stone steps at the front door. People pushing baby strollers or carrying heavy shopping bags sometimes had trouble entering.

Emi, an eighth grader who lived across the street, noticed this one Saturday. While helping a mother lift a stroller up the steps, Emi saw a wide side door facing the alley. That entrance had no steps at all!

When Emi asked Mr. Hara about it, he said, "Deliveries come through that flat door, and customers are welcome to use it too—most people just don't know it's there." With the couple's agreement, Emi made two bright wooden signs in her school woodshop club. One sign by the front steps had an arrow saying, "Step-Free Entrance Around the Corner," and the other welcomed visitors at the side door.

Mr. Hara also added a small bell beside the side door so staff could come right away. Soon, parents with strollers and older neighbors used the flat entrance comfortably every day.

A Sign for the Bakery Steps — Questions

(31) What problem did some customers have at the bread shop?

1 The walnut rolls were too spicy.

2 Two stone steps at the front door made entering hard.

3 The shop opened only once a month.

4 There was no park nearby.

(32) What did Emi notice when she helped a mother with a stroller?

1 A wide side door with no steps.

2 A broken window on the second floor.

3 A bus stop behind the park.

4 A lost puppy in the alley.

(33) Why hadn't customers used the side door before?

1 It was locked all day.

2 It had five steep steps.

3 Only children were allowed to use it.

4 Most people did not know customers could use it.

(34) Where did Emi make the two wooden signs?

1 In a supermarket.

2 In her school woodshop club.

3 At Midori Park.

4 Inside the bakery kitchen.

(35) What did Mr. Hara put beside the side door?

1 A bicycle rack.

2 A vending machine.

3 A small bell.

4 A stone bench.
